

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for managing the manufacture of a printed product, the method including (a) determining by a project management system a product definition for digitally representing the printed product; (b) determining a planning for manufacturing the printed product; (c) proposing a modification of the product definition due to a constraint of the planning; (d) requesting a person for approval of the modification of the product definition.